Standings in the South Bend Bowling association's tournament were materially altered by the Tuesday night's play on the Orpheum alleys. Three teams, the Noxalls, Orpheum Ponies and K. & S. quintets went ahead of the Gilt Edge aggregation, who held down first place at the end of Monday's bowling.

Four teams that rolled Monday were crowded out of the money, the Magyar club and Singer teams No. 4, 1 and 2 going below the coveted 12 first positions. All eight of the five men that bowled Tuesday are in the money at present, but tonight's play will probably dislodge a number of these aggregations.

Wertz Gets 650.
Wertz of the Noxalls hit the pins for a total of 650, the best mark yet made in the tournament. If he is able to repeat when bowling his singles, a chunk of the individual prize money is sure to go his way. Tonight is all-star night at the alleys, some of the best teams of the league of the city being scheduled for a battle with the pins. The Conservative Life five, who have brought fame to the city through their performances in national A. B.

C. meets, will roll their three games, and should hang up a mark for the rest of the teams to shoot at during the remainder of the tourney.

Other teams who will bowl tonight are Jimmy and Goats, Eagles, Conservative Life Ponies, Studebaker No. 1, Hulle and Mike, K. of C., and C. C. The games to-night will all start at 8 o'clock.

THOMAS SHEVLIN,
FOOTBALL COACH
AT YALE, IS DEAD

Millionaire Lumberman is Stricken With Pneumonia as Result of Overwork and Exposure.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 29.—Thomas L. Shevlin, millionaire lumberman and Yale football coach, died at 7 a. m. today from pneumonia. He was stricken with the malady six days ago, after being weakened by overwork and exposure in drilling the Yale team this fall.

After leaving Yale, Shevlin went to California to rest. He returned to his home in Minneapolis last Wednesday. The following day pneumonia developed. Four physicians were called.

But the condition of Shevlin did not improve and Tuesday arrangements were made for a record run from Chicago by Dr. Sippy, attending physician at the Presbyterian and Cook county hospitals of Chicago. Dr. Sippy left Chicago on the Burlington at 3 p. m. and reached St. Paul eight hours later. He was met by H. C. Clark in an automobile.

Clark drove straight to the residence of Shevlin in Minneapolis, where the attending physicians were waiting for him. Following an examination the physicians held a consultation.

Shevlin ranked as one of the great players of the gridiron game ever produced, and his love for his alma mater was so great that he really gave up his life to serve it in its hour of need.

Shevlin captained the 1907 Yale team and then after graduation went into the lumber business in the west. In 1910 when the Yale team was shot to pieces a call was sent for "Old Reliable Tom," and he answered by rushing to New Haven, whipping the team into shape, and enabling it to beat Princeton and tie Harvard.

This season when the Yale team was floundering in the mire of defeat, Shevlin was again called upon to serve his college. He answered that call. He worked day and night in his attempts to develop the material into championship caliber. He surprised the football world when his rejuvenated outfit beat Princeton.

Shevlin was born in Minneapolis in 1882. He went to Yale after graduating from the Pottstown, Pa., high school. In 1909 he married Elizabeth Sherley, a Kentucky belle.

Shevlin's estate is valued at close to $200,000. His widow and his young daughter, Betty, will inherit it.

Just a few months ago Shevlin took out a $1,000,000 insurance policy on his life.

WAS ENTITLED TO ALL PRIVILEGES SAYS RUBE

Insists on Being a Member of the Reds on Their Eastern Trip.

A story that has to do with Mgr. Herzog of Cincinnati, concerns a pitcher named McCloskey, who got a trial with the Reds. McCloskey didn't show up extremely well in the home games in which he worked, and so when the team was starting east, Herzog said to McCloskey:

"We won't need you on this trip. You stay in Cincinnati."

After the train which was carrying the Reds was about 100 miles outside of Cincinnati, Herzog walked through it to see if all his men had caught the train. Among the first men Herzog encountered was McCloskey.

"Hey, what's doin' here?" he belted Herzog. "Didn't I tell you to stay in Cincinnati?"

"Sure you did, but I didn't stay," returned McCloskey. "Y'see, Mr. Herzog, I'm a bona fide member of this here team and I guess I'm entitled to the sight seeing privileges as well as anybody else."

Well, McCloskey made the trip. During one of the New York games the Reds were far behind, a pinch hitter batted for the pitcher, and not caring to work one of his regulars in the ninth inning, Herzog sent in McCloskey.

And McCloskey, almost caused Herzog to succumb to heart failure when he struck out the Giants in succession in the only inning he worked.

"Ye gods, I've got another Walter Johnson," exclaimed Herzog. A few days later the Reds played an exhibition game in Connecticut. Herzog sent in McCloskey in an effort to find out if that strike-out stuff in New York was fool luck or an outcropping of real genius.

McCloskey passed 11 batters, hit three others and made two wild pitches before Herzog could get the derrick into working order.

TED LEWIS GIVES WILLIE RITCHIE LICKING

British Welter Weight Outboxes, Outslugs and Outfights Ex-Lightweight Champ.

By Ed Curley.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—They introduced Ted Lewis to the sporting world Tuesday night at the garden as a legitimate welterweight. They did more than that, for Lewis showed he was one of the cleverest, fastest and hardest hitters seen here in many years. It goes without saying, that he outpointed Willie Ritchie, our former lightweight champion. Lewis did more than that, he outboxed, outslugged and outfought Ritchie the entire route. And when one can do that to Willie Ritchie he has accomplished something.

Willie left the ring with his face bathed in crimson, his lip cut and his left eye discolored. They may outpoint Ritchie, but none can outname him. He never stopped moving after the elusive Briton, whose foot work was superb. Though Lewis hit Ritchie with everything but the water bucket, the old champion kept persistently battling. No matter whether he missed or not and got a stinging slash for his trouble, Willie was always there. While no welterweight title was at stake none will gain say that Lewis can claim that crown. And he will be able to defend it without much difficulty. A slender high jawboned fellow in this Lewis and what is more in this game—a real fighter.
